

How do we communicate with our children about the wars in our world?

If your child is concerned about conflict, make sure to provide an open and safe environment to discuss their questions.

Speak calmly, age appropriately, and factually. Think about things you can do together to either assist those in need, or to promote wellbeing in your community. This gives your child agency, which can help with feelings of helplessness.